DETAILS OF THE TERRIBLE FAMINE IN CENTRAL CHINA

STARVING HORDES RESORT TO CANNIBALISM IN STRICTLY EN DISTRICTS.

VICTORIA, B. C., April 3.—Pitiful details regarding the famine in Central China were received by the steamer Awa Maru, several cases being reported where starving people have resorted to cannibalism. Mrs. J. B. Cochran, in a letter sent to Japanese newspapers, tells of how thousands fight for food at the distributions, and in a subsequent letter from Puchou, which she describes as "the city of dreadful night," she says: "Huddled in the temple are helpless and starving hundreds, the country people who have wandered in after seeing their families die at home. A few nights ago a family gave up hope. The father strangled the three children and he and the mother hanged themselves. They die in this temple and in other places in the city every night. The emaciated bodies are cast out by the living in the morning. Hundreds of thousands are starving and dying in this district."

MAY SOON BUILD A NEW MILL

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev., April 3.—Since the ore bodies in the Mexican which have developed into what has the earmarks of a great bonanza, the company is in a quandry to dispose of its millable ores. It is rumored that the company is figuring on the erection of a mill to handle the large amount of ore now in sight. Practically all the mills on the Carson river, which in former years turned out bullion and ground the quartz from the Comstock mines, have been dismantled, and if they were standing they would be useless under the new treatment that is given ores. There is not a mill on the river that could handle the ores today without a thorough remodeling and the plants are out of the game. The Butters plant is under lease, while the Kinkead mill is engaged on Ophir rock. This eliminates the possibility of using any mill in that section.

Inside of the next thirty days the development in the Mexican will probably call for some mode of treatment. Every round of shot and every shift exposes new and more ore. It certainly sounds good

MAY IMPRISON A PUBLISHER

H. H. KOHLSAAT REFUSES TO ANSWER QUESTION IN LORIMER CASE.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 3.—H. H. Kohlsaat, publisher of the Chicago Record-Herald, told the senate investigating committee yesterday that he knew $100,000 had been used to procure the election of William Lorimer to the United States senate.

He then refused to give the committee the source of his information, notwithstanding the committee has the power to imprison him because of his refusal.

"Any man who will violate a confidence is not worth a snap," said Mr. Kohlsaat. "No newspaper man can violate a confidence. That is my code of morals."

"You have been demanding this investigation, and now you refuse to aid us."

"I appreciate the position, but I will not violate this confidence," concluded Mr. Kohlsaat.

The committee then went into executive conference. Again Mr. Kohlsaat was given a third opportunity to answer. This he again refused to do.

Mr. Kohlsaat was excused until 10 o'clock Monday morning. He was informed by the committee that its members had agreed that he must answer the question.

HERE AND THERE.

With the alfalfa weevil and the potato eel worm invading sections of Nevada, the ranchers will have a busy season.

Virginia City is in the throes of a theatrical war, and with two picture shows running at reduced prices, the people will secure their entertainment at bargain counter rates.

It is said that more prospectors are at work in Elko and Humboldt counties than in all other counties of the state combined. This is due to the attractive surface workings of the past.

Bullion Tax Collector Adamson finds that for the quarter ending December 31, the tax paid in Esmeralda county was $31,760, an increase of $5000 over the previous quarter. Of the above amount Goldfield Consolidated contributed $30,438, and Florence and Silver Peak the balance.

CAPTURED COONS.

The trappers who have spent the winter near Franktown trapping muskrats, have captured two coons this winter. One of them was so badly injured that he had to be killed, but the other has been made a household pet. These are the first coons that have been found in this section for over thirty years.—Carson News.

ELKO PAPER FLAYS SENATOR FOR ACTIONS

Senator H. H. Coryell, who distinguished himself in the last session of the legislature, is explaining to his constituents why he opposed the appropriation for the convict road bill and also why as one of the oldest and most experienced members of the senate, he failed to throw his influence in favor of the good measures instead of playing party politics. It was expected he would be a leader.—Elko Free Press.
